Louise Kasza has created art all her life. After earning a Bachelors Degree in Architectural Design from the University of Illinois in Chicago she and her family moved to California. They settled on the Central Coast where she began painting in earnest.

Louise became a member of the El Camino Art Association in Pismo Beach. There she sold her art, became President of the association and did demonstrations in acrylic painting. Over time she became the costume and set designer for a local theater. Before moving to southern California she took classes from Robert Burrige at a local college in Santa Maria.

After the move Louise became a member of the Carlsbad-Oceanside Art League and eventually became their President. Seeking to hone her artistic abilities, she took classes with Diane Adams and Tony Richards from Mira Costa College and Lian Zhen.

Louise also works as one of the designers for Lemax, a company that manufactures and sells miniature porcelain lighted buildings available in the United States and all over the world.
